13. Do you get angry because of anything? Anger is a kind of feeling. Many things can make you angry. When your teacher gives you too much homework, when someone else catches your taxi, when a friend borrows your favorite thing and then breaks it when your team loses an important game, you may get really angry.

Usually, your body will tell you when you are angry. For example, you breathe faster, your face turns red, and you may want to break something or hit someone, but sometimes you hide your anger. For example, you are really angry, but you may keep it to yourself. The worst thing is to do nothing but keep silence. The problem is that if you do this, you may get a headache or your stomach may get hurt.

In fact, it's not good to hide your anger, and it's normal for you to get angry sometimes. But anger must be let out in the right way, without hurting others or yourself. If you feel angry, what should you do? When you get angry, you can talk about it with other people and share your problems with them. It's helpful to talk about your anger with an adult, such as parents, a teacher, etc. Here are some other things you can do when you start to feel angry: talk to a good friend, count from 1 to 100; give someone a hug; go for a bike ride, think about good things, etc.

Remember that how you act when you are angry can make everything better or worse. It is best not to run away from your anger. You should always try to solve it. Don't let your anger control you.

16. Dear Emma,

Your problem is like a circle. It is because you spend less time with them. The harder you study, the less time you have to spend with friends and the less friendly you look to your classmates. So you should spend more time with them. Look at your classmates. Are there any people with whom you feel you have a lot in common or trust? You can make friends with them first. The advice is as follows:

First, smile at your classmates. Do this as often as you can, until your classmates become used to your smiles and smile back. Next, talk to your classmates. Do this between classes or during your lunch break. You may find it easier to start by talking to people when they are alone.

Perhaps you could ask a classmate about your studies. They are likely to respond (回应) in a very positive way. People like to feel important and helpful.

There must be someone else in your class who is also quiet. It might be easier to try to talk with him or her. Your problem is mainly about confidence. Smile first, talk next and slowly you will make friends. The most important point is that :Unless you have more confidence, you can't make as many friends as you want.
