19. One day, I picked up my daughter Eloise from school and went to the supermarket for a few things. I was hoping to be in and out quickly.

I found a short line with just one person ahead of me. It was an old woman, and she was paying for her things with only change. After a long day at work, I was annoyed and impatient with this woman.

But then I watched the young shop worker. He helped her count her change, ever so gently and cheerfully taking it from her shaking hands. I listened to him repeatedly say to her, "Yes, ma'am." When she asked if she had enough to buy a bag, he told her she did. Then he went two lines over to get one for her. Never once did this shop worker get unhappy or roll his eyes. He was patient and kind.

As I was watching him, I saw Eloise was too. I realized my daughter was learning an important lesson from a complete stranger.

When the woman was finished, the shop worker began ringing up my things and thanked me for my patience. I thanked him, too. I found the manager and told him about the shop worker's kindness and patience.

五、阅读短文，根据短文内容回答问题。（共6分，每小题2分）

20. We should learn to understand our mother well. Here are the best ways towards a better relationship with her. They are not necessarily surprising, but they have worked for many people. Try them.

Remember your mother's age

As children, we often forget our mother's age. Knowing our mother's age, not just in numbers of years but in terms of her psychological (心理的) and physical state, often helps us to understand her better.

Listen to your mother

I have found that sometimes the things my mother told me long ago are pretty useful. If you respect her point of view, it will help your mother feel close to you.

Ask your mother about your childhood (童年的) history

If you are lucky enough to have a loving family, think of your life as a jigsaw puzzle (拼图游戏) and ask as many questions as you can to put the picture together. Understanding your childhood history can help you know more clearly who you are, as part of a family which you share with your mother.

Trying to understand our mother is the topic of how we understand ourselves. We should follow the way of her life. When we are able to accept our mother — with all her failings, we can understand her better and it can also help us to know about our shortcomings. Remember that understanding our mother is really about understanding ourselves.

- (1) Should we learn to understand our mother well?
- (2) _____
What do children often forget about their mother?
- (3) _____
What does the writer want to tell us?
