I walked around the community (社区), hoping to find the lost key. But I couldn't find it. I called my mum and she told me to go to my aunt's home. My aunt lives in another building of our community. I could stay with her today but I couldn't get my key back. The next morning, when I went past the security hut on my way to school, something caught my eyes on the window. It was my key. "Unbelievable!" I was quite surprised when I held the key in my hands.

"Is that yours, kid?" the security guard asked. "Yeah. I lost it yesterday. Who sent this?" I said. The man answered, "I don't know. Someone picked it up last night."

I was happy and moved. To pick up a key from the ground and take it to the security hut is not something great, but this kind action was so important to me. I just felt so happy. I won't be able to say "thanks" to the person because I didn't know him/ her. But I can carry on his or her goodness by learning from the person. From now on, I'm ready to help others.

16. "The delivery man has your food and is on his way." This is a piece of information you may receive after you order food online. We know that delivery men bring your food to you. Do you believe that self-driving cars—cars without drivers will bring food to you in the near future? That sounds interesting, doesn't it?

Now Baidu and Meituan are working together to use self-driving technology (技术) to deliver food. They are going to make some self-driving cars. These companies use the self-driving cars to send group orders. For example, when a company orders food for people working there, a self-driving car will bring all of their orders to the company.

Online food ordering is becoming popular all around China, even in small villages. Till now, about 300 million users use different apps to order food online. Some researchers (研究人员) say that using self-driving cars will be a revolution in the food delivery. They will make a great difference in the future.

Some people think there must be some problems about using self-driving cars to deliver food. For example, self-driving cars can drive well on flat (平坦的) roads, but can they drive well when the road is not flat? People must work out such problems before they can use self-driving cars.

Some people say that we will use self-driving cars in the near future and delivery men will lose their jobs. Do you think so? My answer is "No" because self-driving delivery cannot bring food to everyone in every city.

17. Do you want to live a happy and healthy life? Try laughing for no reason (理由) at all. That's how thousands of people start their day at Laughter Clubs around the world, and many doctors now think that having a good laugh may be a very good way to stay healthy.
- Dr. Madan Kataria started the first Laughter Club in India, in 1995. "Young children laugh about 300 times a day. Adults (成年人) laugh between 7 and 15 times a day." says Dr. Kataria. "Everyone is good at laughing from the day they were born—it's the language everyone knows. We want people to feel happy with their lives." There are now about 500 Laughter Clubs in India and over 1,300 all over the world.

Many doctors are also interested in the advantages of laughter on our health. A 5-year study at the UCLA School of Medicine (医学) in California shows that with laughing, people don't feel so stressful (有压力的). Laughter is able to make ill people turn to be healthy.

So, what happens at a Laughter Club? I went to a club near my home to find out. I was very nervous at the beginning of the class, and I didn't like the idea of laughing with a group of strangers, and I was worried about looking too funny. Our laughter teacher told us to clap (拍手) our hands and say "ho ho ho, ha ha ha..." when we were looking at each other. In fact, our bodies can't tell the difference between real and not real laughter. Both of them can help us keep healthy.

Surprisingly, it works! After ten minutes everybody in the room was laughing for real and some people just couldn't stop! At the end of the class, I was surprised by how happy and comfortable I felt. So when you're under stress, just start laughing. As Dr. Kataria says, "When you laugh, you change and the world changes around you."
