One day, we crossed the street, and you held my hand tight.
Then you were my baby, and now you are my child.
Sometimes, when you sleep, I watch you dream, and I dream too...
Someday you will walk into the deep woods.
Someday your eyes will be filled with happiness so deep that they shine.
Someday you will run so fast and so far that your heart will feel like fire.
Someday you will hear something so bad that you will feel sad.
Someday you will sing a song in the wind, and the wind will take your song away.
Someday I will stand by the door and watch your arms waving to me until I no longer see you.
Someday you will feel a weight against your strong back.
Someday I will watch you brushing your child's hair.
Someday a long time from now on, your own hair will glow silver in the sun.
And when that day comes, my love, you will remember me.

20. When winter comes, most plants lose their leaves, but bamboo does not. Bamboo is one of the fastest growing plants in the world. It can grow 60 cm or more every day. No matter how strong the wind or heavy the snow is in winter, bamboo stands straight and grows fast. Chinese people consider this as bamboo's spirit. It is about being brave enough to face difficulties. Because of this, bamboo has been loved by Chinese people for a long time.

Bamboo is a common plant in China. It has many uses in our daily life. Bamboo is used to make things such as chopsticks, baskets and even some furniture. Its young shoots are also cooked into different kinds of delicious dishes. Bamboo is also the main food for giant pandas.

Bamboo is very useful in art too. Because bamboo is hollow (中空的) inside, it is a good choice for people to make different musical instruments such as dizi and xiao in China.

Bamboo is indeed a special and important plant in Chinese people's heart.
