7. Fourteen years ago, President Xi Jinping said "clear waters and lush mountains are invaluable assets (绿水青山就是金山银山)". Since the founding of the People's Republic of China (PRC), the central government has placed great importance on environmental protection. Great achievements have been made in this area in recent decades through strong measures (措施).

•Fighting desertification (荒漠化防治)

Desertification has been a major challenge for China. In the early 21st century, many parts of the country, including Xinjiang, Gansu and Inner Mongolia, were affected by sandstorms (沙尘暴). They usually happen in deserts. They can do great harm to plants, animals and buildings.

In recent years, the government has tried to prevent deserts from growing in size and bringing more sandstorms. Planting trees has played an important role. China's total forest coverage (覆盖率) rose from 12 percent in the 1980s to 23. 04 now. The total desert coverage has been reduced by an average of 2, 424 square kilometers every year. That's as big as 340, 000
