3. In North America, most students usually go to school by school bus or subway. In small towns and cities, walking is still popular. The yellow school bus is very convenient (便利的) because it takes students right to the entrance (入口) to the school. Students can also talk with their friends on it. But the bus is slow and is not always on time. The subway runs quickly. However, it is expensive and can be very crowded sometimes. And the stops may be far away from the school, so students often have to walk or take a bus from the subway stop to the school. Walking is good exercise for those who live close to school. But it's no fun if you have a large backpack full of books to carry. It's also unpleasant if the weather is either too hot or cold or wet.

- (1) In North America, most students usually go to school by _____.
A. school bus or subway B. car or bicycle C. taxi or car
- (2) For many students, the yellow school bus is convenient but it is _____.

A. 令人不讨厌的 B. 令人不愉快的 C. 不健康的
- (5) This passage is about _____ in North America.
A. transportation B. students C. schools

4. The Dragon Boat Festival falls on the fifth day of the fifth month of the lunar calendar (阴历). It is one of the most important Chinese festivals, the other two being the Mid-Autumn Festival and Chinese New Year.

The origin (起源) of this festival centers around an official named Qu Yuan. He is a good man, but because of others' misdeeds (恶行), he cannot regain (重新获得) the respect of the emperor. Qu Yuan is so sad that he throws himself into the Miluo River. The local people rush into their boats to look for him. But they don't find him. With tears in their eyes, people throw rice dumplings into the river to feed the fish, hoping that the fish will not harm (伤害) the body of Qu Yuan. This may be the origin of zongzi.

In memory of Qu Yuan, people have dragon boat races and eat zongzi. Besides, many Chinese think of this time of year as a dangerous time. Families will hang herbs (草), called Ay Tsao (艾草), on their door to protect (保护) their family from illness.

- (1) Three of the most important Chinese festivals are _____.
A. Chinese New Year, Mid-Autumn Festival, and Dragon Boat Festival
B. Chinese New Year, National Day, and Dragon Boat Festival
C. Chinese New Year, Mid-Autumn Festival, and May Day
- (2) The origin(起源) of this festival centers around _____.
